Six days per week of four to five chapters per day (occasionally fewer). All the Old Testament passages relate in some way to the New Testament reading of the day. Sometimes they include the source of direct quotes, other times they provide background, context, depth, or contrast. It's like a daily Bible study on a NT passage, with support from the OT. You can just explore and enjoy each passage for itself, or look for how each OT passage relates to the NT passage. There are sometimes a few overlapping NT verses for context.

If you are new to the Bible or pressed for time, try just reading the first passage listed for each day (NT), or maybe also any Psalms or Proverbs listed. You can get to the other stuff some other time (probably better to read in a more direct order the first time you want to read the whole Bible - check treasureinthebible.com for other reading plans). If you are averse to flipping around to different passages during one reading session, this is probably not the reading plan for you.

On Sundays no reading is assigned, so you can use that day to catch up or reflect, pray, ponder and connect with other readers to share favorite passages or insights from the week. Ask a friend or two to read along with you in 2014 so you can keep each other accountable to finish! A weekly planned check-in can help to achieve your goal.

The read-through of the entire Bible ends already on December 6th, before the busy end-of-year holiday time arrives. Readings from December 8th onwards are optional Advent/Christmas/New Year meditation verses, which are duplicates from earlier in the year.

"For God was pleased to have all His fullness dwell in Him, and through Him to reconcile to Himself all things, whether things on earth or things in heaven, by making peace through His blood, shed on the cross." Colossians 1:19-20
